

In this issue

Issue 201 Autumn 2019

80

Compass

17 Editorial

Musing on achievements of the HALI 200 celebrations in London, Ben Evans finds that he still has some unfulfilled desires

27 Dialogue

Color Riot! Arizona; Battilossi at 'Sartorino'; Carpets in historic palaces; May Beattie Lecture 2019; A princely costume conserved; Hannah Ryggen's Woven Manifestos in Frankfurt

30 Diary

The editor's pick of international exhibitions, fairs and auctions featuring carpets, textiles and tribal art in the next quarter

33 Calendar

Worldwide listings for Autumn 2019

34 Thread of time

Rachel Meek
Two purses of silk and metal thread, one recently conserved at the Abegg-Stiftung, tapestry-woven six centuries apart

36 Travellers' tales

Lucy Upward
Feasting on food, fables and fabrics on a tour of Sardinia organised by the Memory Wefts project

42 Interview

Elisabeth Parker
Titi Halle, owner and director of New York firm Cora Ginsberg—named after its late founder, one of the world's most renowned and respected dealers in antique and art textiles

45 Comment

P.R.J. (Jim) Ford
The question of cartoons in Safavid carpet weaving—just what kind of design guide were the weavers given?

48 Anatomy of an object

Markus Voigt
From the Moroccan city of Azemmour, a hanging in the Karun Thakar Collection

50 Common thread

Tie-dye & other 'shaped-resist' textiles

Features

60 Sacred surfaces: carpets and textiles in colonial Peru

Elena Phipps
Imported carpets and their fusion with indigenous textile traditions in post-conquest Andean society

72 Kazaks revisited

Raoul Tschebull
An extract from his new book Qarajeh to Quba focusses on three Kazak rugs from the western Transcaucasus in the author's collection

80 Patterns of history

Venice and Alastair Lamb
Although the cloths of West Africa are prized, until now, the looms on which they were woven have been given little attention, but this advanced machinery can be used to decipher the region's past

88 The art of giving

Roger Yorke
Crucial to the bestowing of gifts in Japan are intricately designed cloths called fukusa

100

72

60

Reviews

Marketplace

94 Eclectic and idiosyncratic

Margaret Young-Sánchez
An exhibition of early Andean textiles from the acclaimed collection assembled by textile and fashion designer Fifi White in the 1970s, on display at the William Siegal Gallery in Santa Fe

100 The skills of their own hands

John Picton
One of the founding fathers of the study and appreciation of African textile art in the UK brings the technology essential to the creation of the indigenous weaver's art into sharp focus

110 Exhibition reviews

'Roots and Growth—Contemporary Art from Turkey at the Museum of Islamic and Near Eastern Cultures, Beer Sheva, Israel; 'Symbols and Colors in Caucasian and Alpine Carpets' at the Mercantile Museum and Mercantile Palace, Bolzano, Italy; 'Weaving Beyond the Bauhaus' at the Art Institute of Chicago; 'The Colours of Judaism in Italy' at the Uffizi Gallery, Florence

118 HALI London review

The HALI 200 celebratory events in London with help from members of the New England Rug Society

124 Small and select

Daniel Shaffer
'Masterpieces from an Austrian Private Collection' at Austria Auction Company in Vienna on 16 November 2019 is an anonymous single-owner sale of just thirty exceptional antique rugs and textiles

127 Fairs

The 15th Sartirana Textile Show is in Turin

128 Auction Price Guide

Highlights from the London Islamic Week sales; Kashmir shawls in Christie's specialist online sale; Chinese rugs at Rippon Boswell and Henry's; North African embroideries at Gros & Delettrez

144 Last page

The Maharaja of Indore is emblematic of the Modernist movement. An exhibition in Paris brings together masterpieces of art and design from his palace, including carpets

