

In this issue

Issue 212 Summer 2022

78

Compass

09 Editorial

Introducing this issue's theme of Islamic art and remembering a key collector's commitment to classical carpets

19 Dialogue

HALI Fair Online; Sheila Hicks; Grayson Perry tapestries at Salisbury Cathedral; MAP Academy; The Great Mongol Shahnama

22 Diary

Auctions, exhibitions and fairs worldwide

25 Calendar

The listings page for international rug and textile events

26 Thread of time

This June, celebrations marked the Platinum Jubilee of Queen Elizabeth II. Over a century ago, two silk and metal thread textiles were involved in Queen Victoria's jubilee celebrations

28 Travellers' tales

Ben Evans
On his first intercontinental trip since the pandemic struck, HALI's editor visits the US

40 Profile

Ghiora Aharoni
The New York-based artist is the inaugural Cotsen Studio Artist-in-Residence

43 In memoriam

Craig Keshishian
A personal recollection of the larger-than-life Californian rug trader, George Gilmore

44 Anatomy of an object

Raoul Tschibull
A Caucasian rug from the late Jim Dixon's collection, recently sold at auction in Boston

46 Common thread

Woven objects and textiles given as gifts for those wishing to impress, influence or worship

Features

50 First to last

Alberto Boralevi
A discussion of five of the carpets featured in the recently launched catalogue to the landmark 2014–2015 exhibition 'Art of the Ottomans 1450–1600. Nature and Abstraction: A Glimpse Beyond the Sublime Porte'

60 Flourishing success

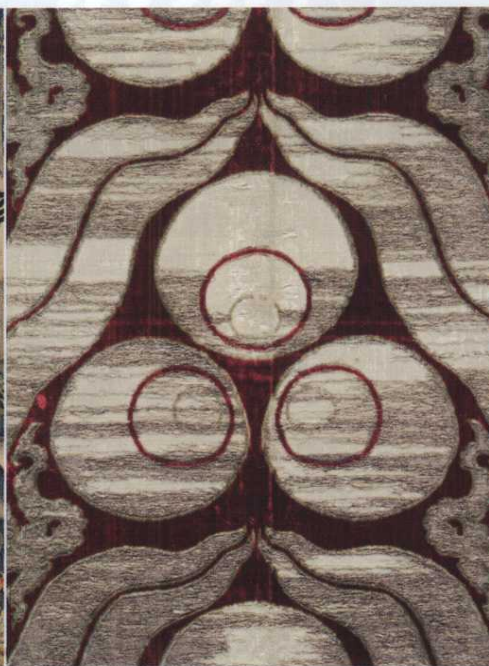

Amanda Phillips
The author of a new book, Sea Change, offers a fresh perspective on Ottoman çatma cushion covers from the 1700s

72 Rediscovered splendour

Daniel Shaffer and Luisella Belleri
One of the last projects sponsored by the late Alessandro Bruschetti was the cleaning and conservation of the little-known Safavid 'Sanguszko' group medallion carpet from the Instituto Valencia de Don Juan in Madrid

46

60

100

Marketplace

78 Cosmopolitan connections

Fuchsia Hart
A Dublin exhibition brings to life the flourishing textile trade of Esfahan, the capital and commercial hub of the Safavid Empire

84 Speaking across the centuries

Mary McWilliams
Inscription-bearing tiraz textiles from medieval Egypt

94 Picture windows into the past

Robert Hillenbrand
Illustrations from the Great Mongol Shahnama give vivid insight into Ilkhanid Iran

100 Auctioneers' choice

Nine specialist antique carpet and textile auctioneers write about one or two of the most memorable sale events, or items they have handled, during their professional careers

114 Raiment of the rainforest

Lucien de Guise
The Islamic Arts Museum Malaysia provides a timeless backdrop to its textile collection

120 Clothing with tales to tell

Gerry Masteller
An exhibition of Insular Southeast Asian textiles the like of which has not been seen in the San Francisco area for three decades

126 Secrets of the scales

Andreas Marks
Exploring the possible reasons for the fish-derived decoration that sets an Ainu robe apart

130 Peaks of Andean weaving

Cecilia Pardo
Peruvian objects, including spectacular textiles, tell their stories at the British Museum

140 Auction reports

John E. Vollmer comments on the high-achieving Chinese court rank badges at Christie's, New York; Jean Hoffman reports on two auctions in Massachusetts which saw rugs and fragments from the collection of the late Jim Dixon sold by Bonhams Skinner; an Iznik tile—one of only eight complete examples—sells at Sotheby's, London; one of a pair of small-format 'Polonaise' rugs, once the property of Baron Adolphe Carl von Rothschild (1823–1900), goes under the hammer at Christie's, London

148 Auction Price Guide

Auction results from around the world

158 Last page

An exhibition at The Met, 'Kimono Style: The John C. Weber Collection', charts the evolution of the Japanese kimono through the centuries

