

In this issue

Issue 216 Summer 2023

Compass

11 Editorial

As institutions show increased awareness of the significance of textiles to cultural history, the editor reflects on the past, is encouraged by the present, and looks forward to the future—while bidding farewell to a good friend

25 Dialogue

New galleries at Te Fare Iamanaha—Musée de Tahiti et des Îles, Tahiti: the Imperial Mantle; 18th-century textiles in aid of abolition; digital quilts from Gees Bend; changes at Sarajo; first Curator of Indigenous Art at Brooklyn Museum

28 Diary

Auctions, exhibitions and fairs worldwide

31 Calendar

HALI highlights the best events of the season

32 Thread of time

Rachel Meek

A faded red used generously in Ming and Ningxia carpets and a surprisingly vivid red used sparingly in Turkmen weavings

34 Travellers' tales

Gillian Vogelsang-Eastwood

Portugal's Arraiolos region has been producing hand-embroidered carpets for hundreds of years

42 Profile

Jonathan Hope

A stop-off in Indonesia on the way to Australia transformed the life of Rudolf Smend, who as a consequence turned a street near the Rhine into a hub for batik enthusiasts

46 Anatomy of an object

Frank Martin Diehr

A Baluch/Timuri animal-tree bag face on display at the Corfu Museum of Asian Art has a central panel that its owner interprets as an abstract representation of the nomadic cosmos

48 Common thread

Whether heralds of good news on earth, or ethereal figures drifting through an indigo sky, winged beings have played a fundamental role in textile art throughout time

52

Features

52 A new home for Islamic art in Texas

Margaret Squires

New galleries at Houston's Museum of Fine Arts

60 The joy of being drawn in

Sylvia Houghteling

Indian textiles from the Parpia Collection

66 A rare Mamluk pair

Alberto Boralevi

Two newly discovered Mamluk carpets in Italy

72 Navajo first phases

Joshua Baer

An in-depth look at the textile masterpieces that are Navajo first-phase chief's blankets

84 Collective creativity

Michele Hardy

Textile art from the Canadian Prairies

88 Boro, washi and more

The recycling skill of Japanese craftspeople examined via the Karun Thakar collection

88

118

72

90
Crossing centuries, realms and religions

Filiz Çakır Phillip
The history of weaving on the Iberian Peninsula

96
The brush substitute is mightier than the pen

Lucien de Guise
Calligraphic batiks of Indonesia in the Sim Tan collection held in Kuala Lumpur

104
A new centre for Turkish carpets

Michael Franses
A Levantine mansion in Izmir has now become the home of the Arkas Carpet Collection

118
Baskets full of ancient history

Reza Abbasi
A tradition using reeds and palm fronds, practised by the nomads of southwestern Iran

120
The Baluch remembered

Unni Wikan
A personal reminiscence offers a window into the world of the Baluch people in Oman

124
Textile masters to the world

Theresa McCullough
The global impact of Indian textiles is explored at the Asian Civilisations Museum in Singapore

Reviews

130
Book reviews

Archie Brennan: Tapestry as Modern Art, reviewed by Nancy Arthur Hoskins; Kimono Style: The John C. Weber Collection, Edo Traditions to Modern Design by Monika Bincsik, reviewed by Alan Kennedy; Textiles in Burman Culture by Sylvia Fraser-Lu, reviewed by Linda S. McIntosh

138
Exhibition reviews

'Wandering Nomads in Central Asia: The Frank Martin Diehr Collection' at Corfu Museum of Asian Art, by Malin Lonnberg; 'A World of Beads: Essential Elements' at Mingei International Museum, San Diego, by Emily Brown; 'Last Garments: Grave Finds from the Assi El-hadath Cave in Lebanon' at Abegg-Stiftung, Riggisberg, by Dominique Wyss; 'Strands Across Time: Historic Southwestern Textiles' at El Museo Cultural de Santa Fe, Santa Fe

Marketplace

146
Auction report

Michael Franses
The value attached to a 'named' rug pattern: 'Ghirlandaio' carpets

148
Auction report

Elisabeth Parker
Arts and Crafts carpets from Ann and Gordon Getty's collection—a reminder of the flair and knowledge that went into creating Temple of Wings, the family's refuge in the Californian hills

151
Report

Ben Evans
The Carpet and Textile Forum in Santa Ynez

152
Auction Price Guide

Auction results from international salerooms

160
Last page

An exhibition of South Asian and Southeast Asian art at the Art Gallery of South Australia

